Choice Removed/Choice Restored:
Making a difference in the lives of
Survivors of Human Trafficking

This symposium will explore ways in which we can make a real and significant difference in the lives of human trafficking survivors. From the plural perspectives of artists, activists, scholars, physicians and researchers who are involved in the cause against exploitation and trafficking, this forum will address concrete ways in which we can raise awareness and help to empower survivors. We believe that, regardless of our role in our communities, we can all contribute to a more equal society where survivors of trafficking can exercise their right to a dignified life.
